DEAD BANK PRESIDENT
BLAMED FOR FORGERY

Cox Says He Forged Check for $30,000 on Request of Banker Thomas, of Philadelphia, Who Died Recently—Cox Says Thomas Killed Self.

Philadelphia, Pa., February 18.—Lewis A. Cox, an insurance broker of this city, was arrested here today on a warrant charging him with forging a check for $30,000 on the Quakertown National Bank, of Quakertown, Pa. Cox was taken after a struggle with officers in an office building in the center of the city, during which he attempted to shoot himself.

Cox, according to the police authorities, admitted the forgery charged against him, and declared it was done with the knowledge of Dr. Joseph Thomas, president of the Quakertown National Bank, who died suddenly about two weeks ago.

Suicide Is Alleged.
Cox further made the declaration that Dr. Thomas cut his throat, but this statement is denied by the members of Thomas' family and the family physician.

The warrant for the arrest of Cox was issued at the instance of Byron Thomas, son of the bank president, who recently discovered the forgery. The accused, who is about sixty-six years of age, has had a spectacular career as a financier in this city. He was a partner of the late William M. Singler in some financial undertakings which contributed to Singler's failure and the closing of a national bank of which Singler was president.

Note Declared a Forgery.
The investigation which led to the arrest of Cox was brought about by the discrediting of a note discounted by Dr. Thomas and said to have been given by Joseph H. Bradley, a well-known manufacturer of this city.

The note, which was for $12,000, fell due after the death of Dr. Thomas, and when presented for collection was declared to be a forgery. Cox, it appears, married a cousin of Dr. Thomas and had transacted considerable business through him. The note discounted was supposed to have been given to Cox by reputable business men to cover premiums on large insurance policies. According to Cashier Charles Harting, of the Quakertown National Bank, the estate of Dr. Thomas is well able to stand the loss of $25,000 or more, and the prosecution was brought by the son to protect his father's name and reputation as a financier.

TORPEDO FLOTILLA SAILS FOR MOBILE MARDI GRAS.

Largest Fleet of Government Vessels to Assemble for Any Gulf Port Mardi Gras.
Mobile, Ala., February 18.—Official notification was received by President Monk, of the Carnival Association, this evening that the torpedo flotilla, consisting of the torpedo boats De Long, Thornton, Tucker, Porter and Hakeley, and the tender Scorpion, today sailed from Norfolk, Va., for the port of Mobile.

DEFEAT STATUTORY LAW FOR STATE PROHIBITION.

Measure Lacked Two Votes of Required Two-thirds in Mississippi Lower House.
Jackson, Miss., February 18.—The surprise of the legislative session occurred this morning when an amendment seeking to establish constitutional prohibition was defeated in the lower house, lacking two votes of the required majority of two-thirds. A singular feature of the defeat was that all members from open saloon counties favored the amendment and many who had voted for statutory prohibition were against it. Those favoring the calling of a constitutional convention are credited with having defeated the amendment in the hope that it would strengthen their cause.

INCREASE GIVEN MCCOOL.

Highest Pension Possible Secured for Him by Livingston.
Washington, D. C., February 18.—(Special.)—Colonel Livingston has secured an increase of pension for Lieutenant Harry M. McCool, of Atlanta, who will in future receive $72 a month. This is the highest pension possible under the law for an officer who has been totally disabled in the service. Lieutenant McCool enlisted in Atlanta and served in Cuba with the Third Georgia (Ray's) Immunes; afterwards he served in the Philippines in the regular army. His wife is a daughter of the late Dr. Knott, of Atlanta.

LAST ACT IN COURTMARTIAL

Accused General Takes Responsibility for Surrender of Port Arthur and Asks for Death Penalty if Surrender Was a Crime.

St. Petersburg, February 18.—The trial of Lieutenant General Stoessel reached the last act today, the prosecution waiving the privilege of putting in rebuttal to the defense.

The last word was given to the accused general, who uttered only a few sentences in a firm voice, and shouldered the entire responsibility for the surrender of Port Arthur. "If the court decides that the surrender was a crime," he concluded, "I ask for the death sentence."

The court is expected to close the proceedings tomorrow with its opinion.

SWEPT DYNAMITE INTO FIRE.

Two Were Fatally and Two Seriously Injured.
Birmingham, Ala., February 18.—Charles Fish and Nelson Jackson were fatally injured and Charles Jones and Beasley Grant seriously injured at Mulgay, this morning, by explosion of a dynamite cap. All were negroes.

The men were sitting around a camp fire when some one unknowingly swept the cap into the blaze.

GRAFT UNKNOWN TO PENNYPACKER

Former Governor a Witness in Capitol Fraud Cases.

TESTIFIED FOR THE DEFENSE

Pennypacker Declared That He Knew Nothing of Wrongdoing and That Every Precaution Was Taken to Safeguard the Interests of the State.

Harrisburg, Pa., February 18.—Former Governor Pennypacker was an important witness at the state capitol conspiracy trial today. Mr. Pennypacker, by virtue of his office as governor, was president of the board of grounds and buildings during the equipment of the capitol. His colleagues on the board were former Auditor General Snyder and former State Treasurer Mathews. Its executive officer was former Superintendent Shumaker. The former governor was called as a witness for these three former state officers.

Pennypacker Tells of Precautions.
Mr. Pennypacker said extraordinary precautions had been taken to safeguard the commonwealth in the payment of bills by requiring the architect and the superintendent of grounds and buildings to certify to them, and the contractor to make oath to their correctness. The former governor admitted, under cross-examination, that he did not know that $1,069,000 had been paid by Snyder and Mathews to Contractor Sanderson without the approval of the board or that on January 10, 1905, the date of the adoption of the resolution by the board requiring the architect's certificate on bills that $2,000,000 had been paid to Sanderson in excess of Architect Huston's estimate on the cost of the furnishings.

He Compliments Huston.
Mr. Pennypacker said he had no reason for thinking that Huston did not do as fully as he could the work he was called upon to do. "If you are asking me for a judgment," he added, "I think it is a great achievement." Asked how long his reliance upon the architect continued, the answer was: "It continues down to the present time, unless I am shown reason to the contrary." Evidence was introduced by the defense to show that in spite of the "approximation" system of billing the Sanderson furnishings, the state was the gainer to the extent of $348,227.15 on Sanderson's bills for furniture, and that Sanderson could have collected $1,024,293.55 instead of $676,066.40 for the furniture.

SENATOR CLAY'S CONDITION.

Confined to His Room, but No Apprehension Is Felt.

Washington, D. C., February 18.—(Special.)—Senator Clay is still confined to his room, but no apprehension is felt as to his condition. The most serious trouble is from the stomach complaint, which has afflicted him for the past year or more. He is also suffering from an attack of grip, and to add to his physical burdens has an abdominal tooth, which has proven quite painful. It is probable that the senator will be confined to his room for several days yet.

at Door of Church.

Williamston, N. C., February 18.—While Bishop Strange, who is holding a mission here this week, was delivering an eloquent discourse on salvation, in the Episcopal church, three pistol shots were heard, and the ushers of the church rushed out, and found E. B. McGlawhorne, who had been shot in the chest, by some unknown person.

Mr. McGlawhorne was conscious, and said to his son, who was among those who rushed out, that some one arose in the darkness and with the words, "You are the man I have been looking for," shot him down.

Mr. McGlawhorne was carried to his house, where every effort was made to save him, but he died.

His assailant left no trace, and the authorities have no clue to his identity.

GILLETTE GOES TO DEATH CHAIR

For the Murder of His Sweetheart, Grace Brown.

HE LURED GIRL TO HER DEATH

High Court Holds That Evidence Showed Gillette Carried Girl on the Lake and Murdered Her
So As to Escape Marrying Her.

Albany, N. Y., February 18.—The court of appeals today decided that Chester Gillette, of Cortland, must die in the electric chair for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace (Billie) Brown, of South Otsie, Chemung county, at Big Moose lake, in the Adirondacks, on July 11, 1906. The court affirms the judgment of conviction of murder in the first degree, and the sentence of death, rendered at the extraordinary term of the superior court of Herkimer county. Gillette is now in the death cell at Auburn. The court will soon fix a new date for his execution.

The opinion of the court reviews the story of the case and holds that while the conviction was upon circumstantial evidence, the counsel for the prosecution made thorough investigation and produced evidence establishing the fact that the death of Miss Brown was due to a crime, and not to an accident.

Pathetic Letter of Girl.
Taking up the matter of the administration of the pathetic letters of Grace Brown to the defendant, the court says:

"Aside from the permitted purpose of showing the relations and the thoughts of the deceased towards the defendant, we can think of no effect which the letters would have been apt to have with the jury, so far as the latter could be controlled by any ruling of the court, except to tend to establish a motive for the commission by the defendant of the crime which is charged against him. But, as we have seen, they might have been admitted with entire propriety for this very purpose, and therefore if the jury considered them upon that branch of the people's case, it did no more than the court should have authorized and directed them to do."

The unanimous opinion of the court, written by Judge Hiseock, riddles Gillette's story of the tragedy, to the effect that Grace Brown voluntarily jumped from the boat and was drowned. Judge Hiseock ascribed to the "naturalness" of the principal features of Gillette's tale.

He alludes to several points which still further impeach its truthfulness and declares that "in addition to these deficiencies and improbabilities in his evidence, there are repeated contradictions by a large number of witnesses who apparently had no interest in telling anything but the truth."

By Gillette's own evidence, as viewed by Judge Hiseock, "we see Gillette emerging from this catastrophe where he made no outcry for help and with apparent composure turning to other pursuits, while he left the body of the woman he says he loved better than any one else and intended to marry, lying unrecaptured and unsought at the bottom of the lake." Grace Brown, the victim, Judge Hiseock describes as having been "brought up in a country home of an apparently

WALL OF WATER
SWEEPS VESSEL

Steamer St. Andrew, Antwerp to
New York, Almost Engulfed.

VESSEL ALMOST FOUNDERED

St. Andrew Was Riding with Comparative Ease When the Wall of Water Suddenly Rose from the Sea and Burst
Upon Her.

New York, February 18.—While the steamer St. Andrew, bound from Antwerp for this port, was plowing her way through the stormy sea off the banks of Newfoundland last Friday, she was all but engulfed in a huge wave which suddenly swept down upon her. The wall of water swept in over the bows, passed high above the crown's crest and filled the decks fore and aft, sweeping everything before it. So great was the force of the blow that the big ship was brought to a stop and for the moment, while she staggered helplessly, some of those on board feared she would founder.

The story of the terrific experience was told today by the officers of the steamer when the St. Andrew arrived here. The weather encountered by the St. Andrew on her voyage had been anything but pleasant. For an hour she had been plunging along in a raging storm through mountainous seas. The big ship, however, was riding the storm with comparative ease. Suddenly there appeared ahead a great wall of water which towered far above the surrounding waves. At its crest there was a misty line.

The towering mass swept down upon the steamer with almost incredible swiftness, and a moment later the ship was enveloped. Everything movable was swept away by the irresistible rush of water. Cattle fittings were torn out, the lifeboats were filled and a flood of water swept into the hold. Fortunately no one on the steamer was injured.

simple and wholesome atmosphere," and aside from her relations with Gillette, he believes her to have been "a girl of pure character and of unusual intelligence and attractiveness."

Reason of the Fatal Journey.
The journey of the two, which for her ended in the bottom of Big Moose lake, Judge Hiseock says "must have been born of the theory, genuine, of course, on the part of the woman, that it would lead to marriage. It could have presented no other reasonable or lawful purpose. The time had passed when desire would prompt such a trip for an opportunity for more illicit enjoyment. A condition existed which only could be relieved in a legitimate way by marriage, and the defendant has testified that at that time he loved the deceased and intended to marry her."

"Yet," the opinion goes grimly on, "every significant step taken by him seems to have led away from this consummation." Judge Hiseock, in short, accepts as valid the theory of the prosecution that Gillette beat the wretched girl upon the head and face with his tennis racket, tumbled her unconscious body into the lake and fed through the woods to keep his appointment with the other girl.

TAFT ENDORSED

Davidson Faction Expelled by Alabama Republicans.

MEETING WAS VERY STORMY

Roosevelt Was Endorsed by Executive Committee in Alabama. Fortrol in Tennessee.

Birmingham, Ala., February 18.—The state republican executive committee, J. O. Thompson, chairman, met here today with thirty out of thirty-two members present. Chairman Thompson made a speech in which he advocated harmony and a united party. A credential committee was named and all credentials passed on.

A motion was presented after a number of speeches were made during the absence of the committee, that all members who had affiliated with the Davidson faction in a recent meeting be expelled from the committee headed by Chairman Thompson.

Much discussion followed. W. F. Aldrich, former congressman, who has a blue eye, the result of a blow given last night in the hotel lobby by Chairman Thompson, questioned the right of the committee to expel any members, and announced that he was of the opinion that the Davidson committee was the rightful committee in the state. The motion to expel Davidson followers prevailed, a caucus decision being carried out.

W. R. Fairley, state member of the miners' national committee, made an address in which he said that John Mitchell stated to him that he (Mitchell) would rather vote for Secretary Taft for president than any man the republicans could name. There was great cheering. The committee decided on a convention to be held in Birmingham May 6, and named the basis of representation. The convention will select the delegates to the national convention. The meeting of the committee was stormy throughout, the Thompson followers being in active control, caucus resolutions adopted last night being carried through right along. Thompson is a strong Taft leader.

ADDRESS TO LEGISLATURE

Bryan Spoke on the Subject of Guaranteeing Bank Deposits and Was Given An Enthusiastic Reception—Also Spoke at Dollar
Dinner.

Columbus, Ohio, February 18.—William J. Bryan's visit to Columbus today was signaled by the democratic state central committee unanimously endorsing his candidacy for the presidency. Mr. Bryan arrived at the Southern hotel while the committee was still in session, and he paused long enough to say that he found a "keen feeling throughout the country that our efforts will not be in vain."

While endorsing Mr. Bryan, the state committee made provision in the call for the state convention by which the voters of any county in which there is a registration city may express their preference for a candidate for president by having the names of the candidates printed on delegate tickets. This action was taken at the request of Hamilton county democrats, who favor the nomination of Judson Harmon, of Cincinnati, for the presidency.

Mr. Bryan, in the course of an interview here, said: "The great questions to share attention in the coming campaign, I believe, are the trust, the tariff and the railroad questions. But one issue runs through all, and that is, 'Shall the government be administered in behalf of all the people or for the benefit of a few of the people?'"

After luncheon at the residence of Colonel James Kilbourne, Mr. Bryan addressed the general assembly in joint session on the subject of guaranteeing bank deposits. He was accorded an enthusiastic reception, and his address was heard with marked attention. Tonight Mr. Bryan was the sole speaker at a dollar dinner given at Memorial Hall under the auspices of the democratic members of the general assembly. His subject was, "The Point of View."

TROOPS FOR HOPKINSVILLE.

Big Demand for Militia in Western Kentucky.

Middlesboro, Ky., February 18.—The remaining members of Company A, Second Kentucky infantry, have been ordered out. Sergeant Ashby Dubosk will leave here tonight for Hopkinsville and Cadiz, Ky., in command of thirty men. Orders have also been given by Governor Willson to get all the recruits possible, as there is a big demand for militia in western Kentucky.

Charity Rate Is Cut Off.

Macon, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—The county commissioners of Bibb were notified this morning that the Central railway would no longer hold the charity rate effective for paupers sent from points in Bibb to other places over the central lines. The action will probably lead to the closing of charity on the hands of the municipal government, and hereafter the full fare must be paid.

SNOW IS CHECKING
RISE OF THE RIVERS

Washington, D. C., February 18.—The weather bureau tonight issued the following special river bulletin:

"Owing to the fact that the precipitation from the present storm over the Ohio waters is mostly in the form of snow, and to the fact that cold weather closely follows, there will be no further intensification of flood conditions in the Ohio valley on the present rise. The Ohio river is now falling above the mouth of the Great Kanawha river, but is still rising slowly below. No change from previous forecasts is at present indicated, except in the vicinity of Cincinnati, where, owing to the comparatively low temperatures above the crest stage will be little if any above the flood line of 50 feet."

Chicago, February 18.—The most violent storm that has visited Chicago in many years commenced today at 7 o'clock in the morning, and tonight is raging with increasing violence, and there is no prospect of a lessening of its force before morning. By 4 o'clock in the afternoon seven inches of snow had fallen and it was still coming down heavily. The wind at frequent intervals blew with a velocity of fifty miles an hour, and it hurled the snow through the streets in such blinding clouds that it was impossible to see for a greater distance than a half square, and often the range of vision would be limited to a few feet. A great number of accidents of a minor character were caused by the collisions between wagons and street cars. Up to 6 o'clock tonight, no serious casualties had been reported.

Dangerous to Cross Street.
At 5 o'clock, when the homegoing crowd was at its thickest, the wind was blowing so heavily and the snow was falling in such blinding sheets that it was positively dangerous to attempt to cross Michigan avenue at its intersection with either Jackson boulevard or Van Buren street. These crossings are used by thousands of people every night. It was found necessary to station a large number of policemen at these corners to assist women, and often it was more than an officer could do to pilot a woman across without assistance. The street car companies and the elevated roads fared well throughout the day, but the heavy increase of snow that came in the late afternoon made desperate work for them. Every available man and all the snow plows were constantly at work in keeping the tracks clear. In the distant suburbs, the trolley lines were operated with great difficulty because of the constantly increasing drift, and locomotion became constantly more difficult. It was estimated at the weather bureau that the fall of snow would amount to one foot or more by morning.

Difficult to Move Trains.
The Illinois Central railway experienced great difficulty during the evening in moving its great suburban trains. Some instances the trains remained stalled for hours while the tracks were shoveled clear. In consequence, crowds of homeward bound patrons were greatly delayed. The Illinois Central, Chicago and Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroads reported incoming trains three to seven hours late.

The storm center during the evening was over Springfield, Ill., and was moving northward, with a probability that it would pass over Chicago early tomorrow morning. The snowfall was general in eastern Iowa and Nebraska, northern Missouri, central and northern Illinois and Indiana, and in Wisconsin and Michigan. Omaha, Neb., reported the heaviest fall in twenty years—nearly fourteen inches—entailing much delay and suffering to live stock en route to eastern markets. Several trains are said to be more than fifteen hours overdue.

Tragic Occurrence.
One of the most tragic occurrences in connection with the storm was the wrecking in the harbor of Waukegan, of the fishing boat Annapolis, in which two men lost their lives and six others had narrow escapes from death. The boat left the harbor early in the day to visit nets set ten miles out in Lake Michigan. Caught in the storm on the return trip, the vessel battled with the elements until it regained the harbor, at 6 o'clock in the evening, only to be blown against a protection wall and crushed. Captain Oliver Rubier, with five men composing the crew were thrown upon an ice pack. Four of the men succeeded in clinging to the ice, and were rescued. Two slid into the water and were drowned.

At Hammond, Ind., two men, blinded by the storm, were run down by a train and fatally injured. In the vicinity a woman, overcome by exhaustion, was found lying in the snow. The government forecast announced late tonight that there was little relief in sight, more snow being in prospect, with falling temperature.

Fleeing from the Flood.
Hazelton, Ind., February 18.—Hundreds of flood-stricken families camped on the high places in the Wabash, White and Pakota river bottoms, have spent a day of hardship and suffering. During the day a biting wind, accompanied by hail and rain, made it impossible for them to use boats. Late in the afternoon the temperature moderated and the melting snow added to the torrents. The rivers rose four feet, covering hundreds of acres seldom known to go under water. The whole population of East Mount Carmel were forced to leave their homes. Thoroughly alarmed over the encroachment of the water, the Evansville and Terre Haute railway is bending every effort to save its route. The Methodist church, one mile from St. Francisville, is given up to flood sufferers. It is surrounded by water.

Sleet Storm at St. Louis.
St. Louis, February 18.—A sleet storm prevailed here during the latter part of the night, being followed this morning by a hard snow storm of brief duration. In turn the snow storm was followed by a drizzling rain, which by noon became a steady downpour. The temperature registers 35 degrees.

Snow Deep in Nebraska.
Omaha, Nebraska, February 18.—A foot of snow, drifted four to six feet deep in many places, greeted the people of Omaha today. Traffic within the city was practically at a standstill. Trains were from one to eight hours behind time.

Blizzard in Iowa.
Des Moines, Iowa, February 18.—Today a blizzard that started during the night passed through this part of the state, delaying trains, stopping street car traffic and interfering with telegraph and telephone communication. Eight inches of snow has fallen, and is drifting badly.

$955 RAISED FOR THE CANAL

Atlantic and Great Western Canal Publicity Fund Growing.

Three hundred and thirty-five dollars was added to the fund for promoting the Atlantic and Great Western canal yesterday as a result of the canvass of some of the business houses by the committee composed of John A. Fox, field director of the National Waterways Association; Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the chamber of commerce; and C. E. Caverly. Money $620 was raised and by the excellent results of Tuesday a total of $955 has been subscribed, with many more prominent citizens yet to be heard from.

This fund is to be expended in literature concerning the proposed canal, such as maps, pamphlets, etc.
Mr. Cooper states that the committee was unable to call on every one because of the lack of time, and that those who wish to subscribe can send their subscriptions to him in care of the chamber of commerce.

Fox Leaves City Today.
Mr. Fox, who has been in the city for several days, will leave today for Albany, where he will address the people of that city on the subject of waterways. He will then go to Macon and speak before the Business Men's League at the annual dinner of that organization, February 22. From Macon he will go to Savannah and address a meeting on February 26. Mr. Fox then leaves the state, going to Alabama to visit twenty-five towns and cities of that state. In each place a publicity fund will be raised.

He will return to Atlanta to speak at the waterways mass meeting which will be held in the near future.
The subscription fund follows:
J. K. Orr Shoe Company, $25; The Georgia, $25; Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, $25; Gholston-Cunningham Spring Bed Company, $25; Ridley-Wilkinson-Span Company, $25; Lowry National Bank, $25; W. CHIEF TO RUN FOR SHERIFF.

Chief of Police Feagin, of Americus, Announces for Sheriff.
Americus, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—Considerable additional interest was injected into the spirited campaign in Americus today by the announcement of Police Chief William H. Feagin for sheriff, with Deputy Sheriff Fuller on his ticket.
The announcement of Sheriff E. L. Bell that he would again be a candidate caused considerable surprise and regret, as no opposition to his candidacy had developed. Chief Feagin has been in the police department twenty years, and is a most capable officer. The probabilities of his election are excellent.

Washington, February 18.—Among the bills and resolutions introduced in the house today is a bill, introduced by Mr. Edwards, of Georgia, increasing the pay of rural mail carriers to $100 a month, providing that no rural route shall be discontinued without the approval of the representative in congress from whose district it is situated, providing that confederate veterans of the war of the rebellion shall be eligible as rural mail carriers "as long as they live."

OWEN WISTER DEFEATED.

The Novelist Beaten by Organizational Candidate in Philadelphia.
Philadelphia, Pa., February 18.—With the exception of five wards in which there were not councilmanic fights, the municipal election in this city today was a perfunctory affair, and passed off without any of the interest that characterized the contest for mayor. Howard Gendell, who was nominated by both the republican and city parties, was reelected city solicitor by the usual large republican majority. A feature of the ward contest was the campaign waged by Owen Wister, the novelist, who was a city party candidate for select councilman. Mr. Wister, however, was defeated by Charles Seger, a powerful member of the republican organization.

Kansas City, February 18.—Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Kansas City Bar Association at the Midland hotel in this city tonight. Mr. Shaw, in discussing the subject, "The Next Step," expressed some apprehension as he viewed the trend of the times away from the principles of republican government and toward pure democracy.

Captain Flagg Has Resigned.
Washington, February 18.—The resignation of Captain Flagg, U. S. Army, assistant surgeon, United States army, has been accepted by the president. He is now on detached service at the New York navy yard. Captain W. A. Marshall will command the new cruiser North Carolina. He is now a captain at the Boston navy yard.

SAILORS' DRIFT WITH DEAD MAN

Three Survivors of the Ship
Emily Reed Rescued.

CORPSE WAS IN LIFE BOAT

For Hours the Three Living Men Had Been in the Boat With the Dead Body of Their Companion—For Days Without Food or Water.
Neah Bay, Wash., February 18.—The crew of the little six-ton sloop Thekla, lying at anchor here, was startled last night by a feeble hail from a steel lifeboat drawing up slowly in the light breeze. In the boat were the forms of four men, three living and one dead, survivors of the American ship Emily Reed, wrecked off the mouth of the Nehalem river, on the coast of Oregon, 200 miles from Neah Bay. The men in the boat were:

First Mate Fred Zube, Seaman Ewald Abildsted, Seaman Arthur Janukine and ship's cook, name unknown.
The dead man was the ship's cook. The three living survivors were in a pitiful condition. Their tongues were swollen so from thirst that at first they could scarcely articulate. They had had no food since last Sunday night, nor any water since they left the wreck of the Reed. Friday morning.

Story of Horror.
Mr. Zube said:
"Almoe, the instant the Reed struck the beach she began to break up. In a twinkling one of the lifeboats was smashed by a big wave and the decks were so deep in the boiling water that there was no chance to get aft, where Captain Kersel and his wife, with some of the members of the crew, were stationed. We jumped into the remaining lifeboat and cut the lashings. Before we had completed the job a big sea broke over the wreck and carried us clear of the decks. A strong current swept us toward the stern of the wreck."

"We could see Captain Kersel and the rest of the ship's company clinging to the roof of the aft house. We yelled to them to throw us a line, as we went under the stern, and some one threw one, but it fell short of our boat."

His Arm Broken.
"My arm had been broken with the wreckage from the galley dropped on to us, and there was only one good oar, as the other had been broken and the spar was bent. We did our best to get back to the wreck, but the set of the undertow carried us away."

"We tried to head for Tillamook light, but we had no compass to steer by. When morning broke, I found we were standing far out to sea. I thought I best to keep the boat well out, hoping to fall into the path of steamships. With this hope I set the course northward along the coast."

"At about 2 o'clock Sunday morning we saw a big steamer. She stopped near us, and we all thought we would be saved, but the vessel got under way again and left us. We had neither food nor water, and we suffered terribly from thirst."

"About 7 o'clock Sunday morning we made out Tatoom island. We were all too tired to manage the boat very well, but along toward Sunday afternoon I got her headed back toward Neah Bay."

Japan's Reply to United States.

Tokio, February 18.—The reply of Japan to the memorandum from the American government of January 26, will be handed to Ambassador Thomas J. Blount tomorrow, February 19. The document, which has been carefully prepared, outlines plans for the proposed future control of the emigration of Japanese to America. It includes many concessions.

Johnson Buys Big Farm.

Tallahassee, Fla., February 18.—(Special.)—Miles H. Johnson, Jr., has recently purchased the interest of his father in the Leon dairy farms, which are located about 8 miles northeast of Tallahassee. Mr. Johnson is a splendid business man, and has a very bright future ahead of him. There are 1,700 acres of land, 200 fine Jersey cows and 200 graded pigs in addition to the other stock. The place is valued at something like $40,000 or $50,000. Mr. Johnson is contemplating the erection of a modern residence in a beautiful grove upon the place.

Callburg Disappears.

Montgomery, Ala., February 18.—(Special.)—H. Callburg, livery man of this city, has not been seen in several days. He is reported to be in the New York navy yard, commanding the new cruiser North Carolina. He is now a captain at the Boston navy yard.

BOWEN LEASES LITHIA HOTEL

Will Make Improvements at Sweet Water Park
Hotel.

Sweet Water Park hotel, located at Lithia Springs, and owned by the Howden-Lithia Springs Water Company, of Atlanta, was yesterday leased for five years to John S. Bowen, who will remodel the hotel, improve the grounds, and open it for the season between the first of May and the first of June. There is perhaps no water in the country, and certainly not in the south, so famous as that which flows from the spring near this hotel, and which has made the Sweet Water Park hotel a watering place par excellence and a summer resort famous throughout the United States.

The lessee, Mr. Bowen, is one of the most prominent resort hotel men in the business. At present he is running the Graystone hotel at Klamme, Fla., and the Seawane hotel at Seawane Springs, Fla. Mr. Bowen states that he intends to make a great many improvements in and around the hotel to make it even more popular than it already is. An eighteen-hole golf links is to be outlined and prepared in the next few weeks, and the grounds will be in prime condition by the time the season begins. The tennis courts will be increased in number, rolled and packed. A stable of horses will be attached to the hotel, and every form of amusement provided. The famous Howden-Lithia water is furnished free to the guests and is kept fresh from the springs at all hours of the day and night. It is probable that the summer season will be continued and the hotel kept open the year around.

EIGHT-HOUR BILL FOUGHT.

American Anti-Boycott Association Opposed to Measure.
Washington, February 18.—A subcommittee of the house committee on labor today gave a hearing on the bill introduced by Chairman Gardner limiting to eight hours a day the time of daily service of laborers and mechanics employed upon work done for the United States. The bill provides that the proper officials may waive the provisions and stipulations of the act during war, or when war is imminent. Daniel Davenport, of Bridgeport, Conn., representing the American Anti-Boycott Association, made the first argument. He spoke in opposition to the measure.

Mr. Davenport said that the object of the bill is to deprive the workmen of this country of the privileges, if they see fit to exercise it, of working overtime and to deprive the employer of the privilege of hiring men on such terms.

Mr. Davenport claimed that if the bill becomes a law the business of the government would come to a standstill, as its whole work would have to be adjusted on an eight-hour basis. He contended that the terms of the bill were ambiguous.

He asserted that the object of the bill is to take away from the people of the country, the working people and the employer, the liberty of contract which they have always enjoyed. "The workman," he said, "ought to be allowed to work more than eight hours a day if he so desires, and the employer ought to be allowed to employ labor to work more than eight hours a day if he pays for it."

BOXER LEADER IS DEAD.

General Tung Fuh Siang Passes Away in Exile.
Shanghai, February 18.—General Tung Fuh Siang, the leader of the boxers in the uprising of 1900, is dead. He had been banished to Kan Su.

General Tung Fuh Siang was regarded at one time as the ablest and most powerful of the Chinese generals. He was neither a Chinaman nor a Manchurian, but was born in Central Asia among Mohammedans.

In the spring of 1900 he appeared at Pekin at the head of ten thousand troops, largely recruited from ex-Mohammedans.

In February, 1901, in conformity with the demands made by the ministers of the powers, General Tung, together with other leaders in the uprising, was ordered to be degraded and deprived of his rank.

SHE DROVE A TACK THROUGH BOY'S TONGUE

Chillicothe, Ohio, February 18.—Humane Officer Jackson today swore out a warrant in New Philadelphia for Miss Clara Sterling, 24 years of age, a teacher at the Society Children's home. Jackson declares Miss Sterling confessed to him that she drove a tack through the tongue of 8-year-old Simpson Fowler, an inmate of the home.

BISHOP DUNCAN NEAR TO DEATH

He Is Very Much Worse and the End Is Not Far Off.

Spartanburg, S. C., February 18.—Bishop W. W. Duncan, of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, who has been ill for some time, is considerably worse, and tonight is in an extremely critical condition. None of his family have left the bedside today, and it is not thought he can get well. The bishop has been in ill health for a year, from an abscess on the back of his neck.

MORTUARY

Mrs. Mamie Robertson.
Mrs. Mamie Clara Robertson, 38 years old, died yesterday morning at her residence, 76 Dodd avenue. She is survived by her husband, father to be. The funeral services were held at the residence last night, and the body will be taken to Kennesaw for interment this morning.

Jennie Rose Hollingsworth.
Jennie Rose, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hollingsworth, died at the residence 338 Highland avenue at 11:40 o'clock last night. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

O. H. Simk, Columbus, Ga.
Columbus, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—O. H. Simk, 38 years of age, who was for years a well-known grocer, died yesterday afternoon after a long illness of a nervous trouble. He was a member of several secret orders and they turned out in a body today to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Rabie Crider, Carrollton, Ga.
Carrollton, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—Mrs. Rabie Crider, of Atlanta, formerly of Carrollton, died in New York last Thursday night at 12:40 o'clock. Her remains are expected to arrive here today at 1:30 o'clock. The funeral will take place this afternoon at the home of her brother, E. B. Brodnax.

Mrs. Crider was the widow of Mr. Ben Crider. She is survived by one child, a little boy; her mother, Mrs. Rosa W. Brodnax, and Mrs. W. J. Stone, of Anniston, Ala., and E. B. Brodnax, of Carrollton.

$60,000 Bond Election for Dublin.

Dublin, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—Although a bond election involving $60,000 is to be held just one week from today, not a great deal of interest is being taken in it by the people of the city. Sentiment is apparently overwhelmingly in favor of the bond issue. The object of the issue is to pave two or three of the business streets, to improve the light and water plant, to extend the sewerage system and to add to the equipment of the school system.

Mrs. Williams Tendered Sympathy.

Dublin, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—Mrs. C. W. Williams, widow of the late George Williams, has received an apologetic letter from a committee of old soldiers at the Soldiers' home in Atlanta, expressing their sorrow at the death of Mr. Williams. It will be remembered that Mr. Williams was a member of the committee of the late George Williams, who was being made, took an active interest in behalf of the soldiers.

QUICK JUSTICE GIVEN RAPIST

Mrs. Dancy Was Several Times Overcome in Giving Her Testimony.
Roanoke, Va., February 18.—Committee assault Thursday, arrested and jailed Friday, indicted the following Monday, tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged Tuesday, is the record of a rapist in the case of the commonwealth against Walter Rippey, the confessed negro rapist.

Rippey was tried today for assault on Mrs. Mary Dancy last Thursday. Mrs. Dancy testified, and in the course of her story was several times overcome, and the court had to wait until she regained her composure before proceeding. The record was one of the most harrowing in the annals of crime in this section. The jury was out a short time, and when the verdict was returned Rippey was sentenced to hang on March 27. There were four charges of assault against the man.

The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company

OF PHILADELPHIA

The Penn Mutual does not offer Special Board Contracts, by which one member is promised advantages not given to all. Being a purely Mutual Company, it could not do so and be honest.

For five years the Penn Mutual has led all Companies in Georgia in paid-for business, and now leads all Companies in volume of business in force in the State. This excellent result is because of the Company's untarnished record for sixty years, the excellence of its policy forms, its liberal dividends, and especially because of its conservative management, which believes in exact and equal justice to all with special favors to none.

We invite correspondence with capable men of good character, who desire to engage in life insurance work. While previous experience in life insurance work is desirable, it is not essential. Liberal contracts for 1908 will be offered.

To people who intend buying insurance, we will be pleased to furnish full information and specimen policies, free from importunity, upon application to any of our Agents or direct to this office.

TAFT SPEAKS OF THE NEGRO

He Says Suffrage Laws in the South Are a Step Forward.

Concord, N. H., February 18.—A good crowd greeted Secretary Taft when he appeared today at Phoenix hall.

As Mr. Taft arose to begin his address some one in the gallery cried: "Three cheers for our next president."

Mr. Taft's address was what he termed "a short history of the republican party." He reviewed the connection of the republican party with the slavery question, and described Abraham Lincoln as "the greatest of republicans."

"The war over," continued the speaker, "the republican party took up the cause of the negro, and by the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments to the constitution gave him a chance for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"The fifteenth amendment to secure the right of the ballot to the negro was not so successful. In time this right was practically nullified. But the leaders of the south found that this was demoralizing. Seeking a remedy, they passed exclusion laws, legal on their face, but so administered as to wrong the negro. This is deplorable, yet the step forward has been taken from open violence. The time is coming when the negro, indispensable to the south as an economic factor, will establish himself fully as a citizen."

After referring to the republican party as being the party of "honest

KING ALFONSO NOT KILLED.

Rumor of Murder of Spanish Monarch Not True.

Madrid, February 18.—There is no truth in the report current in Paris last night that King Alfonso had been assassinated. The rumor probably was the outgrowth of the bomb explosion at Barcelona yesterday, which now appears to have been the work of anarchists. In addition to killing one woman and dangerously wounding a child, the explosion caused much damage to buildings.

The precise object of the outrage has not yet been made clear, but it is interesting to note that the factions of the parliamentary opposition recently united in a request to the government to restore constitutional guarantees in Barcelona, declaring that normal conditions prevailed there.

King Alfonso is at present at Seville.

BREWERY SALOONS TO GO.

Barrooms Can't Be Owned by Manufacturers of Beer.

Des Moines, Iowa, February 18.—Attorney General Myers rendered an opinion to the executive council that saloons cannot lawfully be owned or controlled by corporations, including breweries. Half of the saloons in Iowa are controlled by breweries, and his opinion will force the saloon business to be carried on by individuals, who will be personally responsible for all liabilities incurred. Under the decision, prosecutions may be brought against saloons operated by breweries instead of individuals. If within a reasonable time the property is not transferred,

CHILD BARRED FROM FATHER

Interesting Example of the Working of United States Naturalization Laws.

New York, February 18.—An interesting question under the laws regarding the naturalization of aliens has been decided by Judge Lacombe, of the United States court, and as a result 11-year-old Bertha Teitelbaum is ordered deported to Austria. Her mother will accompany her, although the law allows her to land, and the child's father, who has been in America for several years and is a naturalized citizen, will follow them as soon as he can close out his business.

Isaac Teitelbaum came to America from Austria seven years ago, leaving a wife and little daughter in Austria. After a time he prospered and a short time ago his wife and daughter came to join him here. The daughter has been an invalid since birth and was refused permission to land by the immigration authorities. She was ordered deported, and it was only after a chase down the bay in a tug with a writ of habeas corpus that Teitelbaum succeeded in getting the child off the steamer which was carrying her back to Europe.

It was claimed that Teitelbaum's naturalization made a citizen of his daughter, and while it was admitted that an alien imbecile could not enter the country under the law, this child, as a daughter of a citizen, was, it was claimed, entitled to admission. Judge Lacombe holds out that as the child was in a foreign country at the time her father was naturalized, his citizenship does not extend to her. Teitelbaum will accompany her daughter back to Europe and Teitelbaum says he will leave America for good as soon as he can close out his business.

BUYERS THROG NEW YORK.

Merchants Enthusiastic Over the Outlook for Business.

New York, February 18.—The steady inflow of buyers from the west and south, which began a week or more ago, is constantly increasing and day by day hundreds more are added to the already large army of them in New York. It is now estimated that there are nearly 5,000 of them in New York, each one with orders for large quantities of goods of every description for the spring and summer trades. In almost every case the buyers are enthusiastic over the prospects of business for the future. They say that the financial depression of last fall has passed away and that there are nothing but good times in sight. It is estimated that these buyers will spend more than $100,000,000 for goods during the next few weeks.

JAPS WATCHING AMERICAN FLEET

Steamer Belonging to Japan Trailing the Battleships.

Val Paraiso, February 18.—The doings on the coast of Chile of the Japanese steamer Hassado Maru have, in view of the proximity of the American battleship fleet, attracted considerable attention here. The Kasado Maru left Iquique on January 23 and steamed out to sea. Nothing was heard from her until two days ago, when she arrived at Tocopilla, a small maritime town in Antofagasta province, 140 miles distant from Iquique. The fact that the vessel spent 24 days between these two ports leads to the suspicion in some quarters that she has been observing the passage of the American fleet, or studying the Chilean coast in the vicinity of Tocopilla. The Kasado Maru is equipped with wireless telegraphy. The Kasado Maru belongs to the Japanese government. She left Japan in October for Honolulu, where she arrived November 7. Since then she has been reported at Callao, Arica, and other points on the Chilean coast. She is of 3,800 tons, has twin screws, and was built at Newcastle in 1900.

A House Divided Against Itself

Civil War in the Stomach Spells Ruin.

Victory Belongs to You, If You Will. Costs Nothing to Try.

The greatest foe to the progress of nations has been internal strife, civil war. Equally so is the greatest enemy of health in the human system civil war between the different parts of the body. This is just what occurs in dyspepsia. War is declared between the stomach and the rest of the members of the body—illness results, inability to digest or assimilate food, nervousness, disinclination to work, and, in a word, all the attendant evils of imperfect digestion. What you need is an ally. An ally who will not only help but will absolutely insure you the victory. In other words, let Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets fight your battles for you, and by doing the work of your stomach, give it a complete rest, and allow it to re-enter the lists reinforced, refreshed and rejuvenated.

A single one of these marvelous tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food. Leading physicians all over the world have endorsed Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and have certified them free from harmful drugs.

NOT A PERJURER PLEADS MORSE

Banker Is Arraigned for False Swearing and Gives $10,000 Bond.

New York, February 18.—Charles W. Morse, the former banker and steamship company promoter, who was yesterday indicted on a charge of perjury, today entered a plea of not guilty to the charge and was released on $10,000 bail. The perjury indictment grew out of a loan of $100,000 to E. R. Thomas, concerning which Mr. Morse was called before the grand jury as a witness.

It is charged that Thomas caused a deposit of $50,000 of the funds of the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society of New York to be made with the National Bank of North America, of which Morse was vice president, and that Morse then authorized the bank to loan Mr. Thomas $100,000. Mr. Morse is alleged to have at first testified before the grand jury that he did not authorize the loan and then admitted that he did so.

Philip J. Britt, counsel for Mr. Morse, objected to the requirement of additional bail for Morse on the perjury charge in court today. He said:

"Other persons have been arraigned in this court on the same count and released under bail as low as $2,500. Mr. Morse is under $20,000 bond already. To ask another $20,000 is in accordance with the brutal and unreasonable conduct of the district attorney on Sunday, when he sent three detectives down the bay to arrest, in a sensational and ostentatious manner, a man who had traveled 3,000 miles to surrender himself."

The bail was furnished by the surety company, which gave bail for Morse yesterday.

Attorneys for Morse announced today that preliminary steps have been taken in a motion to vacate the attachment against Morse's property taken out two weeks ago by Charles A. Hanna, receiver of the National Bank of North America. The attachment is for $343,000.

WITH KNIVES THEY FOUGHT

Two Professors in School of Languages in Bloody Duel.

Washington, February 18.—Professor Rene C. DeSerevere is in a critical condition and Professor Otto Flinchinger is under arrest after having had his injuries attended to at a hospital as the result of a duel with knives in a hallway at the Berlitz School of Languages, located at New York avenue and Fourteenth street, N. W.

M. DeSerevere is professor of French and Flinchinger is professor of German in the school. The last named lost his position, it is said, and accused his French colleague with having a hand in his dismissal. They met in a hallway and quarreled.

Flinchinger attacked DeSerevere with a knife and the latter defended himself with a similar weapon. Finally DeSerevere fell from loss of blood, having received nine distinct wounds, the most serious being in the chest. Flinchinger's injuries are not serious. DeSerevere is 31 and his assailant 21 years of age.

ONLY ONE MINER KILLED.

Twenty-seven Are Rescued from the Mid Valley Colliery.

Shamokin, Pa., February 18.—All but one of the twenty-eight men and boys who were entombed yesterday in the Mid Valley colliery were rescued early this morning. Frank Orloskie, a miner of Mid Valley, fell down a chute after the accident and was killed.

When the rescuing party penetrated to the entombed men it was found that the men had dug for a great distance through the fall of coal. There were but few persons at the entrance to the drift when the rescued men reached the surface. The men quickly made their way to their homes, showing no bad effect of their experience.

Brakeman Confesses to Robbery.

Nevada, Mo., February 18.—F. L. Smith, the Missouri, Kansas and Texas brakeman on the Eldorado train, which was robbed Saturday night of a package containing $3,000, confessed last night to having abstracted the package from the conductor's iron box and took the officers today to the express car where the money was found secured.

Smith is held under a charge of grand larceny.

FOES OF ORCHARD WERE DISCUSSED

Entomologist on Educational
Special Talk of Treatment

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN

Agricultural Train Touched at Valdosta, Quitman, Cairo, Bainbridge and Donalsonville
Yesterday Passing Through a Rich Farming and Fruit Section.

By Sidney Ormond.

Donalsonville, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—The educational special of the Georgia State Agricultural college passed through one of the richest sections of the state today, touching at Valdosta, Quitman, Cairo, Bainbridge and Donalsonville.

No more beautiful farming or fruit land is to be found in Georgia than this section, and the people, as a whole, are keenly alive to the importance of modern methods in agriculture. As a result the crowds, while not so large as at some other days, were of an intelligent type. At Valdosta, Quitman and Cairo, which were reached during the morning hours, the public schools were closed, and the children were shown through the train.

Particular interest in the vicinity of Bainbridge attached to the fact that San Jose scale and pear blight have all but ruined the pear trees of the vicinity during the last several years. If the trouble is allowed to go unchecked it is only a question of time when the orchards will be entirely destroyed. As it is, thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of damage has been done. For this reason the lecture of State Entomologist Worsham on the treatment of pear blight and San Jose scale have attracted a great deal of attention.

John Worsham has been successful in treating these conditions, and has given the fruit growers some valuable advice. The party was joined at Valdosta by Chancellor David Barrow, who will be with the train several days. Tonight will be spent at Thomasville, and tomorrow the train will be at Thomasville, Camilla, Albany, Sylvester and Tifton.

CITY ASKED FOR $500 TO MOVE OLD "TEXAS."

Famous Old Locomotive to Be Taken to Grant Park as a War Relic.

The finance committee of the city council has been asked to raise $500 for the purpose of placing "Texas," the famous old war locomotive, in Grant park as a memorial of the celebrated chase which was given with that locomotive after the "General," which was captured in Atlanta by the Yankees.

The "General" is now in a park in Chattanooga, where it is proudly preserved as a sacred war relic. The "Texas" was about to be thrown into the scrap heap a few months ago, and was saved by patriotic men and women. Councilman Winn has introduced a resolution in council asking for the appropriation of $500, and the paper was referred to the finance committee. It is believed the money will be provided and that the old "Texas" will soon occupy an honored place in Grant park's hall of fame.

Master Painters in Session.
New Orleans, La., February 18.—One of the most important subjects before the International Association of Master Painters and Decorators of the United States and Canada, which opened its twenty-fourth annual convention here today, is the relations of the association with paint manufacturers. It is proposed to bring about more harmony between these two interests. Local speakers occupied most of today's session with addresses of welcome.

CANNON BOOM GIVEN BOOST

Subject Brought to Fore in House by Boutell.

FIRST SPEECH ANNIVERSARY

Thirty-four Years Ago "Uncle Joe" Made His First Address in House—He Was Called a "Hayseed," but His Speech Won.

Washington, February 18.—Speaker Cannon's boom received marked impetus in the house of representatives today when Mr. Boutell, his colleague from Illinois, brought the subject to the fore as the climax of a half hour's speech. His remarks were based on the fact that today was the thirty-fourth anniversary of Mr. Cannon's first speech in the house. Mr. Boutell spoke with enthusiasm and when he closed with the remark that within the next few months the plain people of the country would join the voters of Mr. Cannon's district in conferring upon him the nation's final honor, the speaker was accorded a great demonstration. Keen disappointment was felt on all sides when the speaker made no reply. He stepped from the rostrum and amid cheering retired to his room while the house considered pension bills.

Mr. Boutell recalled the noted men of the house since that time whose friendship Mr. Cannon enjoyed, among them being Speaker Blaine, Alex. H. Stephens, of Georgia; Lucius C. Lamar, of Mississippi; and Roger C. Mills, of Texas. "Uncle Joe's" First Speech.

Mr. Boutell said that Mr. Cannon, then but 36 years old, spoke on a bill reducing rates of postage on books, for carrying free newspapers within the counties of their publication and for the extension of the franking privilege to public correspondence. "He made a carefully prepared, logical argument in support of the bill," said Mr. Boutell, "reinforcing his propositions by a well ordered array of convincing figures." Mr. Boutell spoke of a globe by a member directed at Mr. Cannon that "the gentleman must have out in his pocket."

Mr. Boutell said that tumultuous applause greeted Mr. Cannon's retort, when he said: "I understand the gentleman. Yes, I have out in my pocket any hayseed in my hair, and the western people generally are affected in the same way; and we expect that the seed, being good, will yield a good crop. I trust, therefore, and the sooner legislation is had not only as proposed by this bill, but in all other respects, the people desire, and equity and justice shall dictate, the better it will be in the long run for all the people in this country, whatever may be their calling or wherever they may reside."

Speech Made Cannon.
Mr. Cannon's position as one of the strong men in the house and won for him the respect of his colleagues in both branches of congress and of the leaders in official life.

Mr. Boutell's remarks were punctuated throughout with loud applause on the part of republicans and democrats alike. Upon the conclusion of Mr. Boutell's remarks the house and galleries, as a unit, indulged in loud and continuous applause.

Everybody stood up and cheered and continued the demands for a speech until the speaker arose. Every one expected him to say something in reply, but amid shrieks of laughter, he drily said: "The gentleman from New Hampshire (Mr. Sulloway) is recognized for the consideration of pension bills." Mr. Cannon turned the gavel over to Mr. Capron, of Rhode Island, and retired, visibly affected by the demonstration.

Most of the day was taken up by a discussion of the bill to provide for taking the next census. Its consideration had not been concluded when the house, at 4:27, adjourned.

INVALUABLE.

Whisky and glycerine, mixed with Virgin Oil of Pine, is said to break up a cold in 24 hours and cure any cough that is curable. Get from your druggist one 1/2-ounce vial of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and two ounces of glycerine. Mix these thoroughly with a half pint of good whisky and take a teaspoonful every four hours. It has been found that five ounces of tincture of Cinchona compound can be used in place of whisky with the same result. Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure is put up only by the Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O., in half-ounce vials, each vial securely sealed in a round wooden case. Be sure to get the genuine.

NEW RESERVOIR TO BE FINANCED

Report of Special Committee
Referred to Finance Committee.

The fate of the new reservoir is now in the hands of the finance committee of the general council. The report of the special committee was sent to the council Monday afternoon and referred to the finance committee with the recommendation that the committee make provision for the money needed to finish the work on the reservoir.

The county commissioners have agreed to furnish the necessary convict labor when the city is ready to furnish the steam shovels and small tools with which to do the work.

The finance committee will have to provide about $20,000.

The report of the special committee was as follows:

To the General Council of the City of Atlanta, Gentlemen: We, your committee appointed for the purpose of considering the work of completing the new reservoir of the waterworks department, beg leave to report that we conferred with the county commissioners on several occasions, the last meeting being held on February 12, 1908, and as a result the county agrees to furnish the labor and small tools for the work, provided the county does not pay any money, whenever the city gives the county board two weeks' notice of its intention to begin work, and provided the county furnishes as many convict laborers as may be needed to complete the work.

We submit herewith a certified copy of the minutes of the county commissioners held on February 12, 1908, and as a result the agreement was reached by the commissioners and your committee. Respectfully, W. R. Joyce, chairman; C. E. Harman, John W. Grant, C. W. Mangum, R. M. Clayton.

As Councilman Grant is chairman of the finance committee and also a member of the special reservoir committee, it is believed that the money needed will soon be in sight. Councilman Grant has stated that he believes the money or at least enough of it to start the work can be secured, and that he will do his best, as will all the other members of the finance committee, to get enough money to push forward one of the most important and most urgent of city improvements. The fact that the county is now ready to furnish the convict labor makes it imperative that the city do something at once, and it is believed that Councilman Grant will be equal to the occasion.

ANNUAL INSPECTION DAY FOR MEN OF SEVENTEENTH

At Fort McPherson yesterday "Private Jimmy" and all the other privates, "non-coms," lieutenants, captains up to Major McCoy, commander of the post, were just a little straighter, their arms a bit more burnished and the air a little bit more tingling than usual.

For the annual inspection of the four companies of the Seventeenth Infantry, I. K. L. and M. was on. Lieutenant Charles G. Woodward, of the coast artillery, recently detailed by the United States war department as inspector general of the department of the gulf, succeeding Major Cronkrite, met the department headquarters early in the morning for this pleasant task. This is the last inspection which is to be made in this department for some time.

In a few months Colonel Woodward will start out on his annual tour and take in each of the posts in this district and inspect the officers and men to a most rigid inspection.

ALDRICH BILL ONLY MAKESHIFT

So Senator Stone Declares in Attacking the Measure.

TOO MUCH POWER FOR BANKS

Stone Says It Is Wrong for Banks to Have Power to Expand or Contract the Currency as Their Interest May Demand.

Washington, February 18.—Speaking in the senate today Mr. Stone, of Missouri, declared that while the recent financial panic was in part due to a shortage of available currency the concentration of the money at given points had much to do with it. There was, he said, too much of this money in New York. The Aldrich bill he regarded as merely a makeshift in meeting the needs of the country.

"I am opposed," he said, "to conferring these great additional favors and powers upon national banks. The idea of a corporation usurping and exercising the functions of the sovereign has always been obnoxious to me. The power they can exercise upon the political and industrial well being of the nation is enormous and although it is no doubt entirely true that the national banker is as patriotic as the average citizen, yet money and business with him, as with others, are generally selfish and grasping things and dividends are often regarded as of more importance than patriotism."

Objects to Giving Banks Power.
He objected to giving the banks power to regulate in any degree the volume of the people's currency by expanding or contracting it as may happen to suit their views or interests. While they now have that power by the issue of bank notes the pending bill would increase their power along the same line. Property values might be greatly affected by such expansion and contraction.

"There is now," he said, "a community of interests between the banks and the people. The banks are now dependent upon the people for their business. If the government is now dependent on to give stability to the currency."

"I shall vote for the emergency bank note," said Mr. Stone. State banks and trust companies should not, he thought, be denied the same privileges as the national banks.

Mr. Stone favored a law demanding that reserves should be kept in the country banks. If that had been done, he believed the intensity of the recent panic would have been lessened.

He spoke in favor of a guarantee fund to insure the depositors in national banks. He also wished to see banks receiving government bonds required to pay interest on them.

Too Much Power to One Man.

Referring to a suggestion that the treasury department should be controlled by a board of directors rather than by a single secretary, he said too much power was placed in the hands of an individual.

He denounced stock gambling and declared that it took out of the market too much money that might be available for lending for commercial purposes.

The recent panic, he said, had come to a republican administration, although that party had always declared that it brought prosperity upon the country.

Mr. Stone referred to the silver issue, saying its purpose had always been misrepresented and that it had been expected that the parity of all money would be maintained under that system.

"We recognized the crying necessity for additional money," he said.

The contention that adequate increase of the volume of money would revive industries, enhance property values and labor wages had been demonstrated by the history of the last decade.

"I prophesy that many moons will wane before they will again point to democrats and sing in strident chorus the 'song of the soup house.' The full dinner pail will not be again blazoned as an emblem of triumph on the republican shield."

Bacon Opposes Guarantee.

In reply to a question by Senator Hopkins, of Illinois, Mr. Stone said that in case of a money panic, he would put the treasury emergency currency he favored in circulation by depositing it in national banks.

Mr. Bacon, interrupting during the portion of the speech in which Mr. Stone expressed his belief in a government guarantee of deposits in national banks, declared that he would never approve any system for such a guarantee. Senator Smoot suggested that such a guarantee would increase "wild cat" bankers, and he believed it would result in failures greatly in excess of the present rate of one-tenth of 1 per cent of the banks.

ATLANTA WILL BORROW $100,000 THIS MORNING

Councilman John W. Grant, chairman of the finance committee of the city council, will today borrow $100,000 for the city of Atlanta and place it to the credit of the city comptroller with which the bills of this city municipality are to be paid.

Councilman Grant borrowed it at the rate of 4 per cent from four Atlanta banks, which are under contract to receive the city's money and pay upon it 2 per cent interest.

These banks are the Atlanta National bank, the Fourth National bank, the Madison-Rucker Banking Company and the Lowry National bank. These banks were selected by the city after bids had been entered for the privilege of being city depositories.

Ladies' and Children's HOSIERY

It isn't much economy to buy poor Hosiery. In fact it's an extravagance, though many people don't seem to realize it. We apply to the purchase of our Hosiery stock the idea that the best obtainable is the thing to buy. Consequently we search and study the markets, both domestic and foreign, with this in mind: that quality is of prime importance and that we want goods to which we can give our personal warrant of excellence. In every instance, therefore, you find us equipped with the best goods—goods we're not afraid of. And this does not mean only high priced Hosiery. We have the best and it sometimes comes high. But we have also the very conservatively priced and the inexpensive goods, and the very best of these.

Here are some mighty good values:

Ladies' best combed Maco Cotton, medium weight, double sole, heel and toe, all black or white split sole, Hermsdorf dye . . . 25c

Ladies' 2-thread Maco, B. H., with extra high spliced heel: 35c, or 3 pairs for . . . $1

Ladies' Maco, B. H., double sole in the outsizes (extra large): 35c, or 3 pairs for . . . $1

Ladies' Gauze Lisle, double spliced seam up the back, double sole, heel and toe, a fine, pretty gauge. This is a special C.-J.-DuB. importation and one that cannot be surpassed in point of quality: 35c, or $2 for box of six pairs.

Ladies' lace ankle, or all-over lace, stockings in very neat patterns, 35c, or 3 pairs for . . . $1

Children's black 1x1 rib fast black Hose; double heel, toe, sole and knee . . . 15c

Children's fine 1x1 rib, double heel, toe, sole and knee, with shaped leg that insures a good neat fit. All sizes; 3 pairs for . . . $1

Infants' lisle Stockings, white, tan and black, 25c and . . . 35c

Children's Shawknit hose, all sizes tan and black. Not surpassed for durability . . . 25c

ROGERS TO DIE ON GALLOWS

Prison Commission Declines Clemency in Case Similar to That of Glover's.

There is scarcely any further hope for Willie Rogers, the young white man of Savannah, who is under sentence of death for the murder of his wife. The prison commission yesterday declined to interfere with the sentence of the court under which Rogers is to be hanged on Friday of this week, to which time he was respite by Governor Smith.

The plea for commutation to life imprisonment was made in Rogers' behalf on the ground that he is a moral degenerate, and to that extent irresponsible, and upon that ground a large number of Savannah's citizens, including many well-known women, signed petitions to the commission urging executive clemency.

The same sort of plea was made in the case of Arthur Glover, of Augusta, with whose recent execution both the prison commission and the governor refused to interfere, and similar considerations confronted the commission in its consideration of this case.

Under the circumstances, therefore, it is not considered likely that the governor will interfere with the execution of the sentence of the court unless it be only to grant Rogers a brief respite of a few days, as he did in Glover's case, in order to give him time to prepare for death. That it appears, is the best Rogers can expect, and there is every indication that he will pay the penalty of his crime on the gallows within the next few days.

NEGRO CRAZED
OVER RELIGION

Negro Killed Near Statesboro
Did Not Attempt Criminal Assault.

Statesboro, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—Thompson Gilbert, a negro, who was shot by J. B. Smith yesterday, and brought to the Statesboro jail, died last night of his wounds. Developments prove that the negro did not attempt criminal assault upon Mrs. Mathew Howard, as was thought. The report that there were two negroes was also wrong.

The negro was a faith doctor, and had heard that some one was sick at Mr. Smith's house, and went there to drive out the evil spirits. He also attempted to drive out an evil spirit from the man that killed him, and had visited the home the same morning for that purpose. He had attended a religious meeting and went crazy on the subject. He came from Ogeechee, Ga., and leaves a large family. Relatives came after the corpse today. The negro bore a good reputation.

MAY ENLARGE
COURT HOUSE

Plans Are Being Discussed by the County Commissioners of Bibb.

Macon, Ga., February 18.—(Special.)—At the regular meeting of the county commissioners of Bibb this morning plans were informally discussed for the general enlargement of the county court house. At the next monthly meeting of the commissioners all the architects of the city will be invited to be present in order to better discuss the plans that will be needed for the enlargement of the city and superior court rooms. This is a matter much needed and the commissioners are much concerned.

There will be space for a general enlargement and the officials will strive to construct such annexes as will enable them to take care of all county officers and boards within the court house. The extensions will be made in the rear of the building, if plans now on foot are carried to completion.

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period.

MR. SCHLESINGER'S SPLENDID SUGGESTION.

The Constitution can hardly add one word to or subtract one word from the splendid series of suggestions made elsewhere on this page by Mr. Harry L. Schlesinger. We may say, however, that they bear our unqualified and enthusiastic approval. Such must be the attitude of every business man who reads carefully the clear, logical and forceful arguments with which he sustains his consecutive contentions.

Mr. Schlesinger's individual success and his well-known liberality of mind and policy argue the possession of the very qualities needed to give weight and meaning and practicability to the plan he advances. He is looking at our municipal needs and at some perplexing problems of the hour from the angle of a cool-headed, critical and successful business man.

He is of that type we like to believe is characteristic of Atlanta: Cautious, skeptical yet open-minded when radical proposals are put forward—forceful, determined, energetic and enthusiastic in their materialization when convinced they will stand the analysis of dispassionate reason, common sense and the lessons of experience.

His plan for accomplishing many needed local improvements and for alleviating the conditions prevailing here and there is characterized by simplicity, reasonableness and lowness of cost.

There can be no possible doubt of the urgent need of the improvements and expansions he advocates. They must be accomplished, as he says, "anyway, sometime." There can be no plausible argument against the means he suggests to put them into execution.

The market for good, sound municipal bonds was never better nor more promising. The policy and experience of New York, recently, is a case in point. Atlanta has a broad bonded leeway. Her credit is as impregnable, relatively, as that of New York.

Here is an opportunity to make actual, tangible progress toward greater, healthier, more beautiful Atlanta; to buy "needed goods on a low market;" to provide employment for thousands of laborers.

The proposition is one of cold, commercial common sense! Is it not worthy of consideration?

ATLANTA AND HER BANKS.

The remarkable recent evolution of the banks of Atlanta affords an opportunity for a brief analysis of the conditions that speak in temperate, measured and unmistakable terms of the strongly fortified financial status and the stable progress of the community.

Facts are trustworthy only as they are supported by figures. Figures are reliable only as they are confirmed by evidence that is impervious to attack. These conditions apply with an intense practicability to the banking situation in Atlanta.

The Atlanta National bank, the pioneer bank in Atlanta and this portion of the south, is the third local financial institution to radically expand its facilities and resources within the short interval of ten days. Everywhere in the south, everywhere in the country, this bank has long been regarded as a southern banking Gibraltar. Neither flurry nor panic has had the power to swerve the officials of the bank an inch from the assured path of stability and progress. No flaw of official judgment, no temporary dealing in insecure short cuts, no internal weakness has developed to mar its commercial efficiency or to halt its steady advance.

There is a definite meaning, then, to the action of such a bank when it doubles its capital stock—jumping from one-half to a million dollars; and when it increases its surplus from $700,000 to $850,000, giving it, with its five millions of deposits, a working basis of virtually $7,000,000.

It is needless to say that the $250,000 stock that it offers for public sale will be heavily oversubscribed.

Significant in this connection is the fact that the 2,900 shares offered at $200 by the Third National recently—the increasing of whose capital stock and surplus to a million-dollar basis was some days ago editorially foreshadowed and detailed in The Constitution—were oversubscribed by 1,448 shares, while the Maddox-Rucker Banking Company, in nationalizing and going to a million-dollar basis, is already assured that its new stock offer will be oversubscribed.

Thus Atlanta has the Lowry National, the Fourth National, the Third National and the Maddox-Rucker all in the one-million-dollar category—several of them well over the line, while the Central Bank, but little over a year old, is almost up to that standard, and now the Atlanta National comes along at a two-million-dollar pace.

The presence of these and other staunch financial institutions, and the successive remarkable changes reviewed, point these meanings:

The firm financial status of the community.

The wonderful expansion of its industries and its commerce in recent years.

The fact of accomplished growth and the prospect of larger dimensions, which urge hard-headed business men to these far-reaching steps.

PLENTY OF MONEY—BUT SEEKING SAFE PLACES

When there are persons with more than $300,000,000 anxious to invest in 41.2 per cent municipal bonds at the average premium price of 104, it is all the evidence that can be asked that capital is plentiful enough and eager only to find a safe and secure place of lodgment.

It doesn't look much like panic times when New York City finds a demand for half a dozen times her $50,000,000 bond issue at prices ahead of those the last issue brought.

There is no scarcity of capital for safe investment; security and fair return will bring it speedily into action. Other offerings of bonds have demonstrated this, notably the government Panama 2 per cents.

But when it comes to railroad bonds, particularly issues based upon southern projects, capital displays an uninviting coldness that is discouraging almost to the point of despair. Five, six, seven per cent is no temptation; it puts them aside for 2 per cent governments or 4 to 4.12 per cent municipals.

The cause is well known; it has been and is the subject of extensive current comment.

Though there are untold millions awaiting the opportunity to get into industrial activity, it cannot be held surprising that there is not a dollar ready or willing to venture upon quicksands.

The south may cry like Tantalus for the good things in sight, almost within reach, but it will never get them until it shakes off the shackles of demagogic agitation and legislative oppression which have bound it down to a state of industrial inertia.

A 2 per cent investment whose stability cannot be shaken is preferable to that at 7 or 8, which may be swept out or vitiated in a twinkling by a demagogic campaign or a radical and unjust legislative enactment; and when any doubt exists, capital will take the 2 per cent investment every time.

A dollar in a year may bring back only a postage stamp, but the return of that postage stamp is as certain as death and taxes; and it will perform a service. The 6 per cent may or may not come, most probably will, but it is just that one little element of doubt, that fear of possibilities which may never materialize, which makes that 6 per cent lose all its attractiveness.

Capital demands the absolute in protection and security, as near as it is possible of attainment by human agency; without it there is little venturing.

Right here in Atlanta there is abundant capital, evidenced by oversubscription of the additional stock which the Atlanta banks are offering to the public. The people know the men back of these institutions, know they are guided by the principles of sanity and conservatism, know, reasonably, that the annual dividend is not in doubt. But even southern capital is not seeking investment in southern railroad enterprises; it has seen the sweep of agitation, like that of the Kansas cyclone, leaving wreck and ruin in its path, and it halts.

And capital will continue to halt at that development the south most needs today, until the wreckage is cleared and the superstructure of confidence is again reared upon the strong foundation of sanity, justice and conservatism.

Some say that these earth tremors town. Is that a compliment to the one caused by Taft putting his foot on the President's civic virtue, or a revelation on a principle. It would be better to let the principle up, where the principle can investigate it.

The Washington Times suggests a Chicago preacher opines that if that Foraker put on "The Brownville Mr. Roosevelt" were mayor there Minstrels. But he may think the would be no Sunday saloons in that future is dark enough without 'em.

MORE PRESIDENT-MAKING.

The prediction in which we were led to indulge, incident to the Florida republican fracas of a few days ago, that there would be more of riotous turbulence in the process of making presidential candidates on the part of the republicans of the south, is already borne out by the Birmingham scrap, and the end is not yet.

So high is the tension between administration and anti-administration republicans of Alabama that it can find relief only in thumping, head-beating and the letting of blood. Incidentally, too, Annapolis clubs are increasing their enrollment.

But as long as the fight among southern republicans remains one for pocketbook—and it has never yet been anything else—we may expect just such riotous scenes and belligerent incidents. The only wonder is that some of the participants are not occasionally killed in the melee.

Rival delegations from Alabama will go to Chicago side by side with those from Florida; other southern states will send contestants for seats on the convention floor.

Thus southern republicans not only make spectacles of themselves before the whole country by their outbursts of physical violence, but they throw away what power and influence they might exert by united and harmonious action, and practically turn it over to the committee on credentials—which is, of course, the intention.

It has been pointed out that conditions are so shaping themselves that the committee on credentials in the Chicago convention will probably name the republican candidate this year.

Since that committee is, in effect, named by the controlling influence of the convention, will not the republican convention of 1908 and its nominations fall practically into one-man control?

If events take that turn, the warring republicans of the south may at least congratulate themselves upon the erection of this interesting, if undesirable, autocracy.

"JUST FROM GEORGIA."

The Different Country.

El' Jonah wuz a-livin',
An' nobody wuz his owner,
You'd hear a bigger story
'Bout de whale dat swallered Jonah!

Hit wuzn't sich a big one
When he tol' it dat 'ar day,
But ef he seen a whale now
Hit would stretch a mile away!

Hit ain't de same ol' country—
Hit's mighty big an' proud;
De man dat talk de loudes'
Is de man dat got de crowd!

Time to Break Silence.

An old Georgia dandy stopped on the street, with a broken saw in his hand, and, looking the saw over, said:
"Dar, now—d-n you!"

"What's the matter, old man?" asked a curious bystander.

"Well, suh," he replied, "once 'pon a time I sawed wood an' said nuttin'; now I broke my saw, an' I said somethin'!"

The Old Man Goes Fishing.

"The ol' man's been a-fishin' right frequent sence prohibition," said the ol' woman, "an' I kin tell by his actions after he gets home what sorter bait he fished with. When he cusses out the whole fishin' business as no good, an' says the river might's well be as dry as the state, I know by that that he hadn't nary a dram; but when he swears ter ketchin' a fish as long as the tie he's tellin' I, I well knows that his train come in! Last night he come from the river lookin' like a drowned rat, an' 'lowed that a sturgeon—ten foot long ef he wuz a inch—had pulled him in the river, an' ef it hadn't been fer a friendly alligator, he'd a-drowned shore enough. The alligator, havin' slept woke up from his long winter sleep, wuz makin' fer; the shore to swaller a lightard-knot fer his breakfast, an' he got straddle of him, an' come clear of the water. Now, that didn't mean but ONE thing, an' that wuz that his train come in, an' he'd drammed so much that him an' the jug felled in the river! An' what gits me, is, when he's a-lyin' like that he still believes it's as true as what the preacher says 'bout whar he's a-goin' to 'fore he knows it! An' kaze I don't say nuttin'—only jest look an' listen—he thinks it's all Bible to me! But I'll say this: I wuz fooled once—when I married him—but he hadn't never fooled me sence!"

Former Bartender Sells Half Pint of Whisky.

J. D. Williams Held on $500 Bond for Selling Whisky to Stool Pigeon Employed by Police.

J. D. Williams, who was formerly a bartender in the Ira saloon, was held in a $500 bond yesterday by Recorder Broyles for selling whisky to a stool-pigeon employed by the police.

Officer Rowan gave W. A. Crawford a marked dollar to buy whisky with. Crawford went into Jeff Harbin's pool room at 224 Marietta street, and asked W. P. Anderson, an iron moulder, if he knew where any whisky could be bought. Anderson was drinking and directed him to Williams, who gave Crawford a half pint of corn whisky, took the dollar and kept all of it.

Officer Rowan found the marked dollar where Williams had it changed. Williams confessed to selling the whisky, and he was bound over. Anderson was fined $10.75 for being drunk.

Officer Rowan stated that Harbin gave the police all the assistance he could to catch the persons who were selling the whisky. None of the parties in the case were connected with the pool room.

Hundred Candidates.

Montgomery, Ala., February 18.—(Special.)—There will be almost one hundred candidates for office in Montgomery county when the whole list is announced. Already nearly seventy have made known such ambition.

Alas, How Changed!

The poet of The Louisville Courier-Journal sings this song of love and life:

"A girl's ideal at seventeen
Must have fine eyes
Likewise a bold and striking mien
And faultless ties
But later on her fancies roam
To one who'll bring his wages home."

"A man's ideal at seventeen
Must be a spry;
A dainty, fluffy, elin queen
Of sheer delight—
But later on he sort of feels
He wants a girl who can cook meals."

"Ashes of Roses."

One of the first poems written by Elaine Goodale Eastman—in her twelfth year—was the beautiful lyric, "Ashes of Roses":

"Soft on the sunset sky
Bright daylight closes,
Leaving when light doth die,
Pale hues that mingling lie—
Ashes of roses."

"When love's warm sun is set,
Love's brightness closes;
Eyes with soft tears are wet,
In hearts there linger yet
Ashes of roses."

That poem was accepted and printed in a leading magazine, and gave the 12-year-old singer light on the literary road.

A Growing Competitor.

How on, wild weather,
Do what you would do!
You're kin to me, I reckon—
I'm a growler—jest like you!

Jest keep the howlin'—
Hide the sun from view!
Ef you beat me growlin'
You'll have work enough to do!

Chance to Get Even.

"Your boy that went from home is a playin' of the devil in Pennsylvania." "That'll be all right," said the old man, "he'll jest raise h-l with the coal trust, whilst he's at it!"

Billville at the Play.

When Chauncey Olcott was here an old Billville farmer had a front seat at the play, and when he heard the line "He looked Death in the face and got a wife," the old man muttered, audibly: "Mebbe, ef he'd 'a' took a second look he'd 'a' changed his mind an' lived single!"

"It's an Ill Wind," Etc.

"During the blizzard," says The Adams Enterprise, "we got mad and threw our old handpress out o' the window. A fellow came along, carted it away, and is now advertising it through the county as a new style corn-sheller."

Fish stories are also rather early in Georgia, but then, the trains from Tennessee and Florida are making better time now.

No Harm to Cheer Up.

In the blizzard still yer hands you are a-ringin'.
An' you think the winter's treatin' you wrong;
You want to hear a mockin'bird a-singin'.

An' ten to one, you'd sell him for a song!

SCREAMS OF SCHOOL GIRLS FRIGHTENED OFF NEGRO.

Pretty Bertie May Mesinger Was Seized by a Negro on Way From School.

Augusta, Ga., February 18.—(Special.) While on his way home from school, 6 miles from this city yesterday, in company with two younger girls, Bertie May Mesinger, a pretty 15-year-old girl, was seized by a negro, who attempted to criminally assault her.

The screams of the girl's companions frightened the negro off. The attempted crime occurred in a secluded spot, but near enough to a farm house for the screams of the two little girls to be heard.

The girl escaped with a few bruises. The negro fled to the woods. A posse is on the trail with bloodhounds, and threaten summary punishment if he is caught.

REV. F. G. HUGHES VERY ILL.

He is a Well Known Methodist Minister.

Newnan, Ga., February 18.—(Special.) Rev. F. G. Hughes, a well-known Methodist minister of the North Georgia conference, lies desperately ill at his home on College street.

Mr. Hughes has been superannuated three or four years, after a most useful ministry, and enjoys the love and esteem of all who have ever been associated with him.

"GREATER ATLANTA" BY A MILLION DOLLARS IN BONDS

—HARRY L. SCHLESINGER.

How a City Hall, Better Schools, Parks, Sewers, Paving and Business Stimulation May Be Paid For By Ourselves and Posterity.

Editor Constitution: Speaking as a business man who interests himself in the practical aspects of city government, I wish to make a suggestion which, if adopted, will accomplish at a minimum outlay a few of the following developments which every one will agree involve a good many vital municipal and economic problems at the present time:

The building of a new city hall.

The placing of our school buildings and our educational system upon a basis of permanent efficiency.

The improvement, reclamation of and the adoption of a fixed policy toward our sidewalks and pavements.

The extension of main and subsidiary sewers in the degree to which they are absolutely necessary to the health of our people.

The standardizing of our park system, an asset as vital in its way as pure water and adequate sewerage.

THE EMPLOYMENT OF THOUSANDS OF IDLE LABORERS.

A TREMENDOUS STIMULUS TO RETAIL AND WHOLESALE BUSINESS, AT A TIME WHEN BOTH ARE MOST SUSCEPTIBLE TO AND NEEDFUL OF SUCH INFLUENCE.

The program looks like a big one, doesn't it? See how easily it is accomplished!

The city of Atlanta is at present far below its legal limit of bonded indebtedness than any municipality of its size in the country. We could issue more than $2,000,000 worth of bonds—which would be eagerly snapped up—and still observe a conservative margin. It is not necessary, however, to bind ourselves and our children in that sum. One-half of it will accomplish or start toward accomplishment the comprehensive plan I have outlined.

The only question is, do we want these improvements, do we want this employment, do we want this stimulus? There is only one answer for the observant and public-spirited Atlantian.

The standing city hall is an inglorious piece of patchwork. Inadequate, unsightly and a mute reproach to the civic pride of every citizen. It ought to have been razed to the ground long ago, and a structure commensurate with the importance, the dignity and the needs of the municipality substituted in its stead.

Is there any "nay" to this proposition?

Many of the buildings in which we are preparing our children for citizenship and usefulness are notoriously effete in equipment and lacking in space. Buildings are themselves lacking.

Is there any "nay" to this proposition?

I cite the prolonged, futile and costly controversy over our asphalted and other streets and their present dangerous and impassable condition, not forgetting Decatur and Marietta streets.

Be sure the food comes to the table crisp. When package is allowed to remain open the moisture of the air makes it tough. In such case insist that it be dried in an oven as per directions on pkg., then it is delicious.

SOCIETY

AUTHORS AND COMPOSERS TO GO BEFORE CONGRESS

There is at present before congress a question which is of vital interest to music composers and dramatists all over the country, but a question which has not been given any notoriety to speak of, especially in the south, probably on account of this very fact that it does concern musical authors. This latter is a class of men and women whose works, rather than themselves, they would push into the limelight, and so, when it comes to a question of politics, where the personal interest is a powerful one, music composers must enter upon what is to them an unknown realm.

Their work, too, is still looked upon in this country as a luxury which holds only a passing interest for the average citizen, and the composer's interests, therefore, the average citizen has not yet identified with the interests of the country.

The question referred to is embodied in the Kirtledge bill before the senate and the Baruch bill before the house, which are explained in a letter now being addressed to the members of congress from every state where there are men and women actively engaged in pushing the necessity for the desired legislation.

The letter sent out, the explanatory part of the letter is as follows:

Under the present copyright law, made and passed before phonographs, gramophones, talking machines, and other devices, etc., were thought of or invented, an author or composer is protected in his publishing and dramatic rights, but absolutely no provision is made for protecting him from having his works, his creations, the result of his talent and ability, absolutely and literally stolen from him without his permission, consent or even knowledge, and without any remuneration by manufacturers of mechanical devices.

This great wrong the Kirtledge and Baruch bills seek to correct; and in the righteous cause I seek your aid, influence and assistance.

The phonograph trust and piano players combination have made millions upon millions of dollars selling the product of the hands and genius of American composers and authors, without paying them one cent. Why should they not pay royalties? Why should they steal this property and take advantage of a technicality of the law to protect them?

MARRIAGE OF MISS WALLACE AND MR. MAX F. HOWLAND

The marriage of Miss Anne Wallace and Mr. Max Franklin Howland, of Boston, took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Nutting, Dr. Theron Rice, of the First Presbyterian church, performed the impressive ceremony, which, on account of mourning in both families, was witnessed by relatives and intimate friends only. The bride was given away by her cousin, the Hon. Joseph Terrell, and was beautiful in her bridal robe of white princess lace over white crepe de chine. The gown was made according to the empire-princess lines, particularly becoming to her graceful figure. She wore a cluster of natural orange blossoms and a chaplet of these in her hair.

After the ceremony the bride and groom received the affectionate congratulations of those gathered around them;

Literary Entertainment.
On Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Inman Park Baptist church a George Washington birthday literary entertainment is to be held if the weather is not so very unfavorable. Refreshments will be served and no admission charged (entertainment will be worth the admission). A free will offering will be taken for the benefit of the church.

To Mrs. Kien.
Mrs. W. J. Blalock will entertain at bridge tea on Friday afternoon in compliment to her sister, Mrs. Eugene Kien, of Canada.

Dinner Dance.
The closing social event of the week will be the dinner dance at the Capital City Club Saturday evening, which will be a delightful affair. It will be the last one until after the Lenten season, and a hundred and fifty guests will be in attendance.

Doll Land to Be Repeated.
The curtain raiser, "Doll Land," which was presented by a number of Atlanta's brightest little children last week, will be repeated at an early date for the benefit of the Home for Incurables.

Masquerade Ball.
A brilliant social event of next week will be the masquerade ball to be given next Tuesday evening in the Kinball house ball room for the benefit of the Home for the Incurables. The members of the woman's board of the institution will act as patronesses of the occasion, and the music, decorations and refreshments are in charge of committees made up of Atlanta's most prominent women.

Mr. Joseph Brown Connally will lead the cotillion with one of Atlanta's most beautiful young women, and a deal of social interest is centering in the event. Costumes are being designed and planned for, and girls will have the opportunity to bedeck themselves in all the picturesque costumes of which the masquerade ball admits. The majority of the men

Why should they be protected in selling untold thousands of records at a tremendous profit without paying a single cent to the person who originated and composed the composition and whose genius made possible the melodies which these trusts are vending? Why should these trusts be allowed to continue to rob the public of the fruits of the copyright law? This is the only reason the copyright law must be revised to meet present day necessities.

In opposition to the Kirtledge and Baruch bills the square deal copyright bill, I understand the lobby of the trust and combination urge two specific objections. First, they say the Kirtledge and Baruch bills aim to assist a new monopoly. This is absolutely false. The foundation for such a statement is this:

A few of the music publishers—and a very few indeed—have entered into a contract with the Aeolian Company to grant them certain privileges and rights, covering a graduated period from five to ten years. And, on any, why should I, a composer, suffer from any contract some publishers may have made some time ago, especially when I have not tied up any of my rights to any one and am free to make negotiations if protected by proper legislation.

The second objection was that the Aeolian Company was at their own expense to conduct a test case covering the present copyright law to the United States supreme court and to obtain a final decision on a long and much needed question. This was all true several years ago, and the whole agreement will shortly terminate by limitation. Does this mark of monopoly, and is it the only reason for their false and misleading cry?

Secondly, the trust lobby urges that they, who their rolls are, discontinue the music to the authors' benefit. This is only silly rot and without foundation. Did anybody ever hear music from rolls or discs that had not been made popular already at the expense, time and work of the author, composer and publisher? And this is true in 99 per cent of the cases.

Copyright League.

An organization has been effected in New York called the Authors' and Composers' Copyright League of America, with Victor Herbert, president; John Philip Sousa, treasurer, and Reginald de Koven, honorary secretary, which has for its primary object at present an amended legislation which will correct the evils outlined in the Kirtledge and Baruch bills, and this league is attracting the membership of men and women prominent in the music world of the entire country. It has its local as well as its national interest, and Atlanta musicians and authors have been addressed on the subject for the purpose of securing their cooperation. A member of the league in Atlanta is Miss Nan Stephens.

the bride's health was drunk, while dainty refreshments were served, and the occasion was characterized by all the sweet solemnity of the home wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Howland left on the evening train for the east and will reside in Boston, where the former's business is. The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Alexander Wallace, who gallantly served as captain in the Confederate army. She represents families of distinction and aristocracy, her beauty reflecting the dignity and charm of both. No young woman in the community is more widely known or beloved than she, and there are countless friends to regret that her new home is in Boston. Mr. Howland belongs to an old and patriotic family in Massachusetts, and at present is Boston manager of the American Library Bureau.

He resided in Atlanta several years ago and made many friends here.

Tailor-Made Suits for Misses In Newest Spring Models and Fabrics $15 Values at $8.75

Thirty-five strictly tailor-made Suits, for misses and young ladies; sizes 15, 16, 17 and 18 years. They are handsome Suits of serviceable all-wool materials—white grounds with gray and blue stripes.

Coat Suits, with pleated skirts; carefully tailored models with that air of distinction and novelty which younger tastes admire. Fitting beautifully.

And to think that such Suits are to be had now for $8.75. Here they are, though, not one is worth less than $15. Buying them as we did, at an early season's low price, the present remarkable saving follows. It is the most attractive, indeed, the most astonishing value-giving event that has appeared in our misses' Suit stock.

Women's Early Spring Jackets $4.85 Instead of $7.50

Bought to sell for $7.50, but here now at $4.85, notwithstanding the popularity of short, unlined Jackets like these.

Covert Cloth; some of tan and gray Worsted in novelty stripes. Very stylish, semi-fitting Jackets, made with notched collar, long, graceful lapels; coat sleeves, finished at hand with stitching and buttons.

They are new and in excellent taste with any style of skirt; practical, at the same time, neat and dressy. Certainly a treat for anyone who wants an inexpensive but stylish and effective Jacket for early spring.

Regular $15 and $20 Rubberized Raincoats for Women Offered at $7.50

An extraordinary chance, buying for $7.50 these handsome thoroughly practical and useful garments. They've been selling heretofore at $15 and $20.

Just twenty of them, as desirable as they ever were, but it's time they were going.

Automobile and Raincoats, of fine rubberized silk; full length, loose coats newly made and in perfect condition; shown in blue, brown, tan, gray, black and red. Whoever secures one of these for $7.50 will get a Coat they will be proud of for a good, long time.

MISS STANTON'S PICTURES OPEN TO PUBLIC THURSDAY

From a "Walk in the Luxembourg Garden," where the eyes of the beholder strain themselves to see farther beyond the statues, at the base of which little children play, to the front of the home where Henry Grady first saw the light of day, Miss Lucy May Stanton, in two of the many pictures exhibited by her at the Atlanta Art school, takes her admirers, and demonstrates the versatility of her artistic talent.

The exhibition of her pictures, under the auspices of the Atlanta Art Association, will hold tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday. A small admittance of 25 cents will be charged, the proceeds to go to the Art school.

The story of Miss Stanton's success is familiar to Georgians. Of artistic talent and temperament, she has had the advantage of instruction of the best masters of this country and France. Two years ago her picture in oil and her miniatures were among those noted in the French salon. The Paris Herald devoted a column to their praise. She returned to Georgia, and in the mountains and in Athens, so rich in historic associations and picturesque circumstance, she found inspiration for a group of pictures that at once bespeak the universal language in art—in their direct appeal to all those who know art as it is appeals merely to the eye, and those having the deeper or more intellectual appreciation.

Of her thirty-three miniatures there is a group of four that won their first prize in the salon, and another group exhibited at the Philadelphia exhibition in November, when The New York Times, in an elaborate critique, reproduced them in a page devoted to the best work of the exhibition. One of these, Mrs. Forbes and her children, was reproduced in last Sunday's Constitution.

Sketches in Oil.
In twenty sketches in oil Miss Stanton selected her subjects in Paris, and in the words of a connoisseur, admiring the pictures yesterday, "she brings one to realize the very atmosphere that makes Paris the mecca of art lovers and students."

Her interpretation of the Luxembourg, in delicacy of treatment, in realism, is reminiscent in effect, and makes one desire to look at it uninterrupted, that the full meaning of all the subject presents may be recalled.

"The Street Scene, St. Surplice," and "The Walk in Luxembourg Gardens," in realistic presentation, perspective, and exquisite treatment, continue the impression that Miss Stanton has caught the very atmosphere about her subjects and imprinted it upon the canvas.

Her copies from the Louvre, four from Feagondar, who reflected the art spirit of the Louis XVI period, one from Chavdin, and one from "L'Allegre," give the young artist the opportunity to express her appreciation of the old masters, and to give those not familiar with Feagondar a knowledge of the subtle sensuousness of his work a suggestiveness.

It is an ideal corset for vocalists and elocutionists. It is adaptable to slight and medium figures. Also made without rubber in front and hips.

There's a story going the rounds that a man once lived who chopped down his father's cherry tree, and upon being asked he did not tell a lie, but said, "Father, I cut down your cherry tree."

In this decade we are glad to find a man who can tell the truth. But what's the use of trying when members are being added to the Ananias Club every day. What would the father of our country think of such a change in his land? We do not venture a reply, but think—

The temperature yesterday was, in the main, hanging in the thirties.

Students of French.

At the last meeting of Atlanta's French Club, which was held with Mrs. Albert Adams, it was determined that at the next meetings the club read a French comedy. According to the rules of the club, only French was spoken; Miss Edna McCandless sang a group of French songs, and the athletic selections played by Mrs. Adams on the harp were by French composers. The next meeting of the club will be with Miss Marion Woodward.

The Saturday Afternoon French Club, of which Mademoiselle Fiquet is founder and director, met Saturday and heard an interesting lecture on the theaters of Paris—the different ones—their standard and value.

The lecture was especially instructive to those who contemplate European travel, the charge being frequently and justly made that American travelers never see any but the places of amusement classed as the lowest in all Paris, when at all seasons there, there are theaters standing for the highest achievement in musical and dramatic art.

For Woman Suffrage.

The following resolution was adopted by the Indiana State Dairy Association a few days ago:

"Whereas, in the development of the resources of the middle west, women have borne equal burdens with men; and

"Whereas, in the great industry for which this association stands, women represent an equal share of its labor; and

"Whereas, in our state university the dairy courses are shared equally by men and women; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the State Dairy Association, in convention assembled, indorse the movement for equal political rights for women, and hereby urge the state legislature at its next session, to adopt a resolution requesting the congress of the United States to submit to the various state legislatures for ratification an amendment to the United States constitution prohibiting disfranchisement on account of sex."

Legislation in Massachusetts.

Some noteworthy letters were read at the legislative hearing on woman suffrage in Massachusetts the other day. Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, president of the National Christian Endeavor Society, wrote:

"I do not know of any unanswerable argument against woman suffrage, and I know a great many arguments in its favor. As I have seen its operation in New Zealand and other parts of the world, my belief in it has been strengthened."

President Mary E. Woolly, of Mount Holyoke college, wrote:

"In temperance work, on school and health boards, in prison reform, in peace conferences, in factory and ship inspection, in civil service reform, in attempts to solve social and industrial problems, women are not only a factor, but in many cases the chief workers. The time will come when we shall look back upon the arguments against granting the suffrage to women with as much incredulity as we now read the arguments against their education."

Mrs. Mary Alden Ward, president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, testified to the great growth of woman suffrage sentiment among the club women.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe and other distinguished persons were among the speakers at the hearing.

A Story.

A father and son, walking on the roadway, came to a house where a giantess dwelt.

She was sitting outside the door in a hammock.

"How beautiful she is," said the boy. "How strong! See her twist that rope. Why does she live here?"

"To help certain travelers up the hill," replied the father.

"Does she help them?"

"No. She says she does not want to go up the hill herself and wonders why they do."

"Why do they?" asked the boy. "They must go or starve."

"There are some coming now. Oh! look at the great packs on their backs! Why do they walk so crooked?"

"They are staggering under their loads."

QUEEN OF NORWAY ON HORSEBACK.

These poor women have carried them many years."

"What will happen if some one does not help them to the top?"

"Part will die in the valley; part on the hill. A few will be able to go on."

"What's beyond the hill?" asked the boy.

"A beautiful blue ocean."

"Oh! I did not know that. If the giantess does not help them she can never see the ocean, can she?"

"No."

"That's too bad!" said the boy. "Beautiful lady, please help these travelers."

"What travelers?" asked the woman. "These poor, broken-backed women. They are sick and hungry."

"Sick. Why are they sick? I am well. Why are they hungry? I have plenty to eat."

"If you do not help them they will not see the ocean."

"What's an ocean?"

"I don't know," said the boy; "only it's something beautiful you see when you have helped others up the hill."

"But I have my creek and trees. What more do I want? I am comfortable."

"Yes," said the boy, timidly, "but they are not."

"Funny I do not see them," said the giantess.

"Please help," pleaded the boy. "You are so powerful and they need you so badly."

But the giantess made herself comfortable and went to sleep, with a sweet smile on her face.

The tears came to the boy's eyes as he saw the women with the burdens tottering on. "Will she always sleep and smile?" he asked, impatiently.

"No," replied the father, "some day the Surgeon's selfishness will open his eyes. She is blind. When she sees she will help the burdened women, and better, she will teach them how to carry their loads more easily and to carry them better or dispense with them entirely."

HARRIET TAYLOR UPTON.

Valentines.

For the first time in many years there was a general observance of Valentine's day and old and young were sending and receiving them.

Fortunately there was a scarcity of the old-time coarse ones, some times called comic. In place there was a revival of the old-fashioned ones, with quaint verses and wishes, quaint costumes and figures and all kinds of cupid and heart suggestions.

One little lady in Atlanta who took pleasure in sending to those she loved the old-time good wishes tells the pretty story that during the forty-four years of her married life her husband has never missed sending her a valentine.

"He always has somebody else to address it, and when he sees me open it he goes through the same form of being jealous of whoever the impudent man was who sent it, just as he did in our early married life," said the little lady.

"At first I believed some one else had sent the mysterious missive, but when I did finally find out the truth I kept up the old nonsense of making a mystery of it."

"I know my husband sends it, and he knows I know it, but regularly on St. Valentine's day we have the little dialogue of how jealous he is of the one who sends it and I refuse to reveal my suspicions as to the person."

Another story is told of a little 5-year-old boy who believes firmly in Santa Claus, Valentine, Uncle Remus and the critters.

When among his valentines there was one of sentimental verse, asking, "Will you promise to love me only," which was read to him by his mother, he looked thoughtful and unhappy and said, "but I don't want to promise to love her only; I want to love others, too."

The mother thought the thoughtful remark indicated an early, honorable and manly spirit on the part of her beloved offspring.

Other members of the family, however, thought there might have been sounded in the youthful mind, prematurely, the new love note in fiction, "that love must be marked, not by the degree of its intensity for the individual, but by its powers of extension."

Direct from Paris.

A reliable publication on millinery published a letter direct from Paris as to spring hats as follows:

From what I have seen already, a woman would certainly be hard to please if she did not find among these the hat of her dreams! Latterly each season seems to have given us a more liberal selection than its predecessors. Certainly the spring of 1908 will start with the finest show of novelties.

To begin with, the new Romney hat is one of the most dashing looking big hats I have seen for a long while. It has a high crown, a brim that juts forward over the left brow with a slight upward roll and slopes gradually down over the right ear. As I have mostly seen it, the high crown is draped round carelessly with some soft material, drawn rather closely, but not tight, the brim is lined, and the roses with which it is generally trimmed are put in on the right side as to rest partly on the brim, partly against the side of the crown. Example: A model of palest blue rice straw lined and draped with rose pink satin, and decorated with roses; the hues are considerably lower in tone than that of the material.

To set against this is another novelty, the Ange Pilon hat, which has also a tall crown, but quite a narrow brim. We have yet to hear how these will take in straw, but they are very fascinating when covered in tulle and bordered with a braid of panne to match. One of its features is the wide drapery drawn in tight but careless folds, the top edge of which is arranged in waves and rises higher at the sides than at the front and back. There is invariably a plume of ostrich or big egret feathers put on rather far back on the left side. Neutral suit this hat best or at least color very much toned down.

Some new ideas in millinery have already received the approval of the public, who were behind the footlights, and only await that of the world generally. One of these is nothing more complicated than the addition of a soft lace ruffle to the underside of a broad brimmed straw hat. Such a ruffle, selected about the same width as the brim, is mounted by its foot to the edge of the head hole. A few stitches here and there may hold it to the front of the brim, but at the sides and back it is certainly only supported by the hair, so that the effect is something like the hair of a Charlotte Corday cap worn under a hat. Like most of what has been made lately, this is a style that will look absolutely bewitching on some women, and turn others into terrible guys.

"Yes," said the boy, "but they are not."

"Funny I do not see them," said the giantess.

"Please help," pleaded the boy. "You are so powerful and they need you so badly."

But the giantess made herself comfortable and went to sleep, with a sweet smile on her face.

NOT YET READY TO ISSUE CALL

Chairman Johnson Undismayed by Manifesto of the State Leaguers.

Despite the manifesto issued by the Republican State League of Georgia, through President J. G. Slaten, to the effect that unless the republican state central committee at once did something toward calling a convention of the league would call a convention of its own, no move has been made by Hon. Walter Johnson, chairman of the state central committee, and he seems totally undismayed by the league's threats.

Beyond the fact that nothing has yet been done toward calling the republican convention, and that he does not know when anything will be done, Chairman Johnson has nothing to say.

In view of the unsettled condition of republican national affairs, there is quite an amount of interest in what state is to be taken by the Georgia delegation to the republican convention.

So far the only thing in sight is the second district convention, to be held at Dawson on March 28.
